

TWU BUSES

April 2022

THE FIGHT IS NOT OVER

Congratulations to every single one of you who took part in successful TWU action on Monday the 11 April. You took the fight for Same Job Same Pay and bus driver safety to the next level.

Hundreds of Bus Drivers came together in a strong unity to demand 'Same Job Same Pay' and safe working conditions that all Bus Drivers deserve.

The action left the NSW Transport Minister, David Elliot, red-faced for failing to take responsibility for the issues that his Government has created and he is shamelessly dodging questions by the media.

In the meantime, bus companies were left scrambling to fill runs for hundreds of bus drivers across the city.

While the strike action was successful and an essential way to send our message – the fight must not stop here.

In the coming weeks we must continue to build momentum and power to increase pressure on both, the NSW Government and all bus companies.

It is important that in the lead up to the next action, every union member focuses on building more unity and negotiating power in their depot.

Member strength ensures we keep the pressure on the NSW Government and the companies.

We must educate every non-member about the need for them to join the Union and stand united with the drivers moving forward.

Please share this flier with non-members and make sure they are standing with you at the next action!

Mick Pieri
Assistant State Secretary

Congratulations on a successful first action and let's take the fight for same job, same pay and safety to the next level.
